

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The image coding device comprises data adding means for adding specific data to input image data at the end of image data, and arithmetic coding unit not issuing remaining output code of code register after coding of final input data. In this constitution, increase of circuit scale can be suppressed and decline of operation clock can be prevented.

09971727-100501